

DISCOVERING LIVES

I can't begin to count
All the places we met at
You'd be on the East Side working out
I'd be downtown bouncing about
But we'd always find a way
To spend a few hours hanging out
Even as our world was about to cave

We never knew we were covered by flies
That rocks had been placed upon our eyes
Then our bodies touched
Our world forever changed
Then our bodies touched
The way we knew each other
Would never be the same

Chorus

Uncovering a life

A woman discovered

A new love in existence

A second life uncovered

It was like a door flew open
And we found ourselves drawn
Into a hidden chamber room
Where you and I could finally see
The invisible masks we had worn
The relics of your past lying next to you
And the life you were bringing to me

Chorus

Uncovering a life

A woman discovered

A new love in existence

A second life uncovered

Bridge

How were we brought together?
Was it some ancient barrier that snapped?
Was it a rotting temple that collapsed?
Does it really matter?

Our forgotten gifts recovered
In the fragments that we saw
The creation of love
The creation of lives
Awaiting before us unexplored
The presence of longing
No longer denied
And nothing is as it was before
And nothing is as it was before
And nothing is as it was before

Chorus

Uncovering a life
A woman discovered
A new love in existence
A second life uncovered

Chuck Casey
Copyright 2011