

IF NOAH DROVE A SUBWAY TRAIN

I can see a distant kin of Genghis Khan
Might be a great, great, great, great grandson
But I'm not quite sure how old he is
So I could be off by one
He's still got his horde with him
And plenty more are riding in

Chorus

*If Noah drove a subway train
He better hope it doesn't rain
It's way too crowded down below
If more come in, they'll have nowhere to go*

I am sitting next to a noble king
He looks a lot like Montezuma
With his llamas and parrot feathers
All he needs is a spotted puma
His crew is loading his painted birds
And right behind are his monkey herds

Chorus

Bridge

Noah's in a pretty tough spot
He don't know subway cars ain't like a boat
He keeps packing them in real tight
But subway cars ain't meant to float
He better get used to the underground
Lord knows, we want no one to drown

I think there's a fight between Saxons and Jutes
Space is getting scarce so they started talking trash
But their hearts ain't into battling no more
They're just looking to drop some cash
And now there are more flowing in by bus
All this spending is causing a fuss
