

IT HAS TO BE ME

I sensed our life was heading south
Yet neither one of us seemed to be at fault
I just felt each time we got together
It was like we were visiting a vault
I never thought we'd find ourselves down here
It must've had something to do with fear

Chorus

*Things aren't working...that's plain to see
I'm starting to think it has to be me
I keep trying to learn what I should say
That will make these problems just go away*

You must have felt it coming a long way off
As you realized one of us would have to go
Even when we made some time to talk
We were just explaining to an echo
You liked to joke that we would find our path
Then you would always finish with a laugh

Chorus

*Things aren't working...that's plain to see
I'm starting to think it has to be me
I keep trying to learn what I should say
That will make these problems just go away*

Bridge

I have been hiding from myself
I have been lying to myself
I must offer a simple voice
The sound of an animal voice

We did try to cultivate our worst pains
As we worked in the garden of wants and needs
But nothing of beauty could be sustained
Because we were only watering weeds
We came to believe things are as they are
Though we never understood how they fell so far

Chorus

*Things aren't working...that's plain to see
I'm starting to think it has to be me
I keep trying to learn what I should say
That will make these problems just go away*
