

THREE MYSTERIES

I knew three women from different lives
Each one took me through her secret door
And each one showed me her sacred side

The first one dragged me to her jungle floor
She was keeper of the cage and it felt so right
She had no important reason to explore
And she could always lock the gate at night

Chorus

*She needed love to endure her liberty
And I wanted so to love her
So I could share her mystery*

The next one brought me to her endless plain
Where she watched the sick and dying in the day
She felt like she was on a hopeless wagon train
She dreamt of leaving but still showed up to pray

Chorus

*She needed love to endure her sanctity
And I wanted so to love her
So I could share her mystery*

The last lived alone on a mountain high
She only knew silence yet she remained
As witness to the prayer flags nailed upon the sky
Longing for that passion touch-denying her pain

Chorus

*She needed love to endure her deity
Oh! I wanted so to love her
So I could share her mystery*

*Oh! I wanted so to love her
So I could share her mystery*

Chuck Casey
Copyright 2009